A Year on Film

Every movie has a beginning and an end, just like high school. Our goal is to capture every moment in between and treasure it forever. Although some things do not last, the memories we have made and shared at Sacred Heart will stay with us forever. By taking “Memories from the Heart 2013” with us, we will guarantee that even the smallest, but most memorable moments will never be forgotten.

Head of School

Dear Sacred Heart Students,

Congratulations on another excellent school year, and for achieving so many milestones in academics, the arts, sports, and community. You are a compassionate and committed group, and we are all very proud of you. You have demonstrated time and time again your strong leadership skills and have the Courage et Confiance to be the women leaders of tomorrow.

I would also like to congratulate our graduates, a fine class of energetic and creative young women who have not only enjoyed an excellent senior year, but who have also had a stellar high school career at Sacred Heart. Sacred Heart continues to be an incubator of innovation, where intellectual risk-taking, academic achievement and real world education are embraced. We aim to graduate girls who are destined to become the confident, capable, creative and compassionate women leaders of tomorrow. The CLASS OF 2013 embodies these values and then some!

This year's memory book is another great success! The entire team is to be commended for a job well done! Please join me in thanking our student memory book editors Kayla Cabanas and Sara Tagliamonti. Of course, we owe a great debt of gratitude to our faculty editor/advisor, Ms. Erika Rath. We were extremely fortunate to discover back in the fall, that not only was Ms. Rath qualified and able to replace Ms. Lessey in the classroom, but she was also willing and able to take on the huge task of memory book advisor. I am sure you will agree with me that she and her student team have done an incredible job!

They have invested countless hours producing this fine book of memories. As is obvious from the final product, they have taken great pains to showcase the entire student population and our many educational, cultural, social and athletic activities. On behalf of the entire school, I offer them a heartfelt thank you for a job well done!

Shawn O'Donnell
Head of School

Assistant Head

Dear Class of 2013,

You leave Sacred Heart well-prepared for the wealth of opportunity that awaits you. Put your talents and energy to good use, find time to reflect, and keep your hearts and minds open to all good possibilities. Try always to accept both success and failure with grace and dignity. Above all, no matter where you go or what you do, choose your path with care and pursue it with love and integrity.

Sincerely and with all good wishes for the future,

Mrs. Filipovich

Dean of Students

Your time at Sacred Heart as a student, housed in the safe shelter of City House, has had a beginning and an end. Your Sacred Heart education, however, is something that will be a part of you for a lifetime. During your time here you have had excellent academic instruction, five memorable retreats, and a wide variety of exciting trips. Personally, I will never forget the fun, laughter and shopping, we shared on our New York excursion (long live Canal Street). You are all grown up now and ready to make your way in the world and it will be full of exciting new beginnings for each of you. As you meet each new challenge, never doubt your own worth. Please remember that for this world to be a better place it needs your intelligence, your goodness and your example. "I hope that your dreams take you to the corners of your smiles, to the highest of your hopes, to the windows of your opportunities and to the most special places that your heart can ever imagine." (Ralph Waldo Emerson)

Sheridan

"I know I've come to you for a lot this year, but you're always there and I'm very grateful for that. You've been a valuable part of the team this year, and all the pages you've worked on are so creative. I'm happy to have worked with you, it's been a bit of a stressful project, but you've helped so much! Thank you. " - From your Editor Sara

Thaksha

"Thank you for everything! I'm going to miss working with you in the yearbook room and having our talks while trying to figure out why the computer decided to stop working! Good luck with everything, it's been really fun having you on the yearbook team." - From your Editor Sara

Elizabeth

"You've done some really nice pages, and you have many creative ideas. Thank you for being a part of our very small, but hard-working yearbook team this year. You've contributed to the yearbook, and all that you've done looks great." - From your Editor Sara

Kayla Cabanas

I was so happy to be chosen to be co-editor of the yearbook this year. It has been a great year and this yearbook would not have been possible without the help of such an amazing group of girls. I'm going to miss you so much and wish you girls all the best of luck. It has been an honor working with all of you this past year. I would like to extend my thanks to Ms Rath and Sara for all the hard work they've put into making this book truly memorable. - Kayla

Sara Tagliamonti

"When becoming the Yearbook Editor, I was not expecting it to be such a stressful job. However, as the year wore on, I realized my original impression could not be more false. Nevertheless, it's been an amazing experience and I truly enjoyed every moment I spent working on the yearbook. Even in the most stressful circumstances, I felt myself relaxing as I worked in the yearbook room. Everyone involved has done an amazing job and I'm grateful to have had them on the team. It's been a blast being the editor, but all good things must come to an end. I can't wait to see it all together; I know everyone's hard work is going to pay off! I hope everyone enjoys this year's yearbook."

-Sara

Lisa

"You decided to be apart of the yearbook team a little later in the year, but nevertheless, regardless of what I asked you to do, you did. Thank you so much for being so understanding even when I was stressed and worried. You helped a lot in various ways, and I'm really going to miss having you around everyday next year." - From your Editor Sara

Ms. Rath

It's been a wonderful year working with you girls! Your hard work and dedication really paid off and you have created a wonderful book full of memories.

Congratulations and good luck next year!

-Ms.Rath

The U.K Trip

"The world is a book and those who do not travel read only one page." – St. Augustine

The two-week trip was whirlwind of excitement. With the guidance of Jim, our tour guide, we visited the magical lands of Ireland, to the amazing city of London. We visited Manchester and then went to Scotland. We did and saw so many things, like scaring ourselves silly in the ghost tour and seeing the famous Platform 9 3/4, and unfortunately Mr. Beauvais wouldn't let us go to Hogwarts. Thank you Ms. Coull, Ms. Valela, Mr. T, and Mr. Reda for being our fearless group leaders, and to Mr. Beauvais for organizing the whole trip!

Grad Song

Once upon a time
Five years ago
We walked through
Those penfield doors
They found us x3

And ever since then
Wearing that kilt
Walking up those stairs
We became very built
They made us strong x3

Now we're long gone
They're just memories
And we've realized
It's time to say goodbye, but

We know we are gonna miss sacred
And all the memories
We've shared throughout these five
years
But we won't be too sad

We know we are gonna miss sacred
And all the memories
We've shared throughout these five
Now we're walking out these castle
doors
Ah, oh, ah sacred sacred sacred
(grads)
Ah, oh, ah sacred sacred sacred

Taking off that tie
No more dress uniform
Saying bye to the teachers
And mr Ward
We're gonna miss you x3

So we know were moving on
We're gonna miss GA
This big family
We won't see everyday
We're gonna miss it x3

Now we're long gone
They're just memories
And we've realized
It's time to say goodbye, but

We know we are gonna miss sacred
And all the memories
We've shared throughout these five
But we won't be too sad

We know we are gonna miss sacred
And all the memories
We've shared throughout these five
Now we're walking out these castle
Ah, oh, ah sacred sacred sacred
(grads)
Ah, oh, ah sacred sacred sacred

And the saddest part
Is that we'll be apart
Going to different schools
Leaving
Everything
Behind us
Yaaaaa

We know we are gonna miss sacred
And all the memories
We've shared throughout these five
But we won't be too sad

In the words of Semisonic, "Every new beginning comes from some other beginning's end." Well graduates, here we are, faced with a beginning and an end alike. After five years in this castle, with its routine, comfort, quirks and familiar faces, we're finally moving on. Like little birds that feel like they've been nurtured for far too long, we are ready to ditch the nest and fly away. Today, we close the curtain on what has been a five-year long production. If hard work and perseverance merit medals, you all deserve golden eggs, diamond waterfalls and a solid pat on the back. This evening, not only do we recognize the end of this chapter in our lives, but we also recall and celebrate all that we've accomplished both independently and collectively during our time at Sacred Heart. Lastly, this day holds significance in that it marks a beginning. It opens the doors to the rest of our lives and the boundless awaiting possibilities.

Let us begin by taking a look back. Nearly five years ago, many of us filed through the Portry doors, sporting "Saints" t-shirts and knee-length dazzling blue gym shorts, for our first day of orientation. As we sat in the parlor, we were all equally anxious and excited for the day's proceeding, but more importantly, for the journey that lay ahead of us. From the perspective of slightly smaller, more naive versions of ourselves, the building and everything inside of it was quite large and frightening. Back then, this institution and all of its customs were unknown to us: détente, blessing foreigners, the mystery behind Alice the ghost, the everlasting trek from the first to fifth floor and DASHABU-what? It was only a matter of time before we established that adjusting to our new environment wasn't something that could be done single-handedly. On that account, we turned to each other and created what would become long lasting friendships.

What would ensue is five years of discovery, growth, breakdowns, streaming hormones, tears, laughter and simple delight, to say the least. As we promptly began growing out of our side bangs, kilts and Ecco lace-ups, we simultaneously grew into the school that had previously been big and scary to us. Eventually, Sacred would adopt a significant and unique role in each one of our lives. Today, it's a place most of us consider home. Disagree, if you may, but let's get real. Where else would it be considered socially acceptable to walk around in socks, with what could be confused for a bird's nest sitting on top of your head, asking just about every passerby for a Meitai or any form of nourishment that doesn't take the form of a Special K bar?

Sacred Heart has not only served as an academic establishment, but more significantly as a place of personal development. Not one of us can say that the young woman sitting here today is the same pre-pubescent tween who anxiously sat at her study hall desk for the first time late August of 2008. Owing to the education and instruction we've received in addition to our individual experience, we've all matured into strong, independent and intellectual young women. We've added an astonishing 750 Wordly Wise words to our vocabularies, mastered SOH-CAH-TOA, drilled Canadian History like it was nobody's business, we all know "I Have No Bright Or Clever Friends" and finally, we survived YPI. Yet here we all are, our minds and bodies still intact. Moreover, we each adopted a personal set of morals and values and have come to understand what it means to love and respect one another, as well as ourselves. All this to say, we've witnessed each other grow, in ways that can't be quantified by a number on a scale nor line on a measuring stick.

Despite the marvel in all that we've learnt and the ways in which we've flourished as individuals, it is the memories we've shared as a unit that have certainly made these past five years worthwhile. Sec.1 G.I "Loyola Dance Talks," the 2A "Wong Experience," "Hali Baby," staying at school until ungodly hours for Robotics, multiple trips around the globe, peeling bananas as we travelled to Stratford and our epic sec.5 pranks; we definitely kept ourselves entertained. Although I can't say that we were always the most tightly knit group of friends, we've stuck together nonetheless. Our deep talks during retreat this year just goes to show that in spite of our differences, we can come together and entrust in one another. We share the eternal bond of being part of the class of 2013, and I hope that each of you treasures this gift indefinitely into the future. After being surrounded by one another seven hours a day, five days a week, ten months a year, for five years, today everyone will go her separate way. Next year is surely going to be an unsettling adjustment.

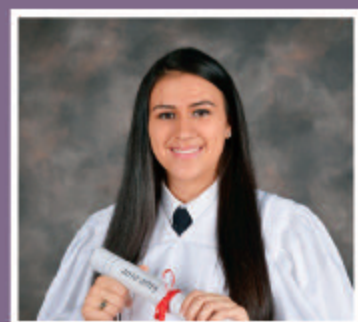

On behalf of the graduating class, I'd like to take a moment to thank the administration, teachers and families, who have all stood by us without fail over these past five years. Had it not been for your guidance, support, dedication and uttermost patience, we would not be the same women that sit before you today. Furthermore, we would not nearly have accomplished as much as we did. Thank you for serving as positive and inspirational role models in our daily lives, thank you for testing our capabilities, thank you for pushing us to succeed and thank you for picking us up every time that we fell. As well, thank you for putting up with us day after day, with our non-stop complaints, inquiries and one too many late night meltdowns. For this and much more, today's ceremony commemorates your efforts and success, together with our own.

Some of us have been saying for a while now that we're ready to move on. We claim that we're ready to face the so-called "real world" and all of its uncertainties. As phrased by MGMT, we're "a family of trees wanting to be haunted." We may be set to move forward, however it won't be before long that the inevitable heartache of leaving something behind catches up to us. Next year, as you find yourself in new surroundings, crowded hallways filled with unfamiliar faces and less brightly colored walls, you may surprise yourself as you yearn for Mme Louise's breakfast cookies, the echoing chant of "Children of the Light" or the signature "Mastro Stare". As in the case of all things you grow accustomed to, letting go presents itself as a challenge.

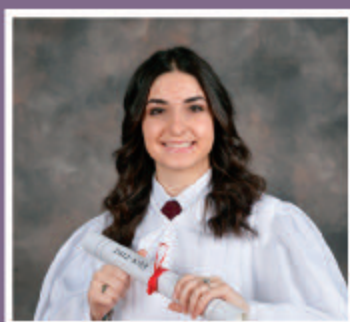

Nevertheless, I have complete faith that each and every one of you will achieve greatness in your future endeavors. I'm being completely honest in saying that before me sits the most amazing group of girls that I know. Each one of you is kind, unique, talented and destined for success. You are all forces to be reckoned with; the real world has no idea what's headed its way. In various ways, you have all demonstrated your potential here at Sacred Heart, whether on stage, on the field, in the chemistry lab, behind the camera or in front of a canvas. I hope that each of you pursues your dreams with boldness, takes chances and never shies away from an opportunity because you doubt your abilities or you are told that you can't. You can! In the words of William Arthur Ward, "If you can imagine it, you can achieve it; if you can dream it, you can become it." Finally, take pride in all that you do, both the failures and the accomplishments. It is our actions, big, small, good and bad, that define us as individuals. All the while, please don't forget to enjoy yourself. Embrace every day, every experience, every living moment. You're only a fluorescent adolescent once in your life so make the most of it.

Now, let's rid ourselves of our ties, throw our caps in the air and start this new chapter as we end the one before it: together. Graduates of 2013, today is June 20th and in this moment, we are infinite. Congratulations and I love you all!

Orientation to Graduation

Congratulations Julia on another great year in Secondary II. !

Julia Zito

We are so very proud of your academic accomplishments but also of your involvement in sports and other activities. You have demonstrated your maturity and independence this year and I couldn't be more proud of the young lady you have become.

Remember to follow your dreams, as there are no boundaries as to what you can accomplish. Most importantly always stay true to your- self.

Continued success and love always from Mama, Oma and Opa.

(A special thanks goes out to Miss Mastro, who has been a "ROCK" and such a positive influence in all our daughters lives). You will truly be missed.

The last 5 years have certainly been a rewarding journey, watching you grow from a little girl into a fine young lady. We've watched you excel in academics, music and sports, essentially everything you put your mind to. Remember, the future is yours to conquer and, with continued hard work and perseverance, all is within your reach. We are looking forward to your continued growth and successes and, wish for you good health and happiness.

With love and devotion,

Extremely proud Mom, Dad, and David
